

BRADLEY JAMES KROLL

Project Terms & Contract

This document outlines the terms between Bradley James Kroll, herein referred to as “Company” and the company, herein referred to as “Client.” It ensures that the deliverables will be executed and payment to be delivered. The following are the terms agreed upon by the parties.

The conclusion of the project is dependent on a documented agreement between Client and Company that the product is complete. From there, Client agrees to pay in full ON OR BEFORE THE DUE DATE, or fourteen calendar days, upon delivery of the final product(s) unless otherwise disclosed by a separate contract.

If Client cancels upon commencement of any project, Client is responsible for paying Company a 15% cancellation fee, which is 15% of the quoted amount for the project.

The final product(s) will be delivered in digital format via file transfer. From there, Client has the right to upload, post or use them as they please, provided payment has been made.

By signing below, both Client and Company agree to the terms stated above. This is a binding contract for any project Client approaches Company for.
